Tough luck will strike. Abe Loewen was unfortunate to break his leg while slipping into the driveway of their thrashing machine. We hope he can soon get up and get around.

When the weather begins to look a little though farmers in Gem will run two thrashing machines on one place. We have to hand it to Fred Leget for making this experiment.

Hallowe'en Shell-out

Bassano will be right in the swing with Communities from coast to coast in Canada, on October 31 as the town's youngsters make the rounds for Hallowe'en Shell-out tickets.

The Hallowe'en Shell-out campaign is being conducted by the Hussar club across the Dominion, and every cent raised by the sale of the little orange Shell-out tickets will go to the club's Milk for Britain campaign—to provide milk for the less fortunate children of the British Isles.

Bassano merchants now have the tickets for sale, so that everyone in town may have some ready for the kids on Hallowe'en.

There will be prizes for the kids who collect the most tickets and a big banquet will be held on November 2nd, in the Masonic Hall with all arrangements in charge of the ladies of the Boys Overseas Service Club. The ladies are also co-operating with the teachers of the town in putting on a concert after the banquet.

Let's see Bassano rank right up with the leading communities in Canada, in proportion to population, in this drive to help the less fortunate children overseas.

PASSING

And The PERMANENT

A Mother's Ministry

"There is no real substitute for a mother in the home," says Judge Michael Scott of the St. Louis juvenile court. "Instead of trying 4,500 boys and girls last year, we should have been trying 9,000 parents."

Marriage and Divorce

No longer is Reno the divorce capital of the nation. Los Angeles can now claim that title of divorce for during the first half of 1944 it had 11,797 divorces and 16,578 marriages, a divorce rate of 71 percent. The Nevada city scored only 3,000 divorces with 6,712 marriages, a divorce rate of 46 per cent.

Home-front Casualties

American casualties at the fighting fronts have been great, but casualties on the home front through accidents have been three times as numerous. A total of 69,629 were killed in action since Pearl Harbor, whereas the accident toll since that day totals 264,560 lives. Perilous times, indeed as God warned, 2 Tim. 3:1.

"PEACE PEACE!"

In a recent speech Mr. Churchill stated that "the whole of Europe is sliding irresistibly into new and secure foundations," and "because that is so, we can hope that peace when it comes will be permanent—solidly and securely founded." But the Bible says, "When they shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh." 1 Thess. 5:3.

Discernment of Demons

A writer in Prophecy says: "Christian nurses in asylums are being awakened to the fact that many of their patients are demon-possessed people and ought to be set free as in the olden times by the power of the name of Christ. The nurses are uniting in prayer, claiming deliverance by the power of Jesus' name, and again and again some of their tormented patients are delivered. In one asylum the head nurse was converted and immediately became convinced that the worst case in the asylum could not but be demon-possession, and after prayer went with her Bible in hand, and on the authority of the Word of God demanded the demons to leave. The patient was delivered."

Opium Addicts

After twelve years of Japanese rule, about one third of the total population in the four northeastern provinces of China have become addicted to opium smoking. The enemy has succeeded in leading 12,000,000 of these Chinese into the awful habit. Not only that but he has established large factories in Mukden, Changhai, Harbin, and other cities to manufacture morphine, heroin and other narcotic drugs. The Government of Chiang Kai-shek, on the other hand, has been doing everything possible for the past ten years to stamp out the opium evil wherever it has jurisdiction. An Opium Suppression Day is observed annually and the suppression campaign is said to have obtained the desired results in most areas throughout Free China.

"Don't let the Boys Know"

A few weeks ago according to Word and Way, a soldier returned to his Memphis home from Guadalcanal. It was Sunday morning and when his parents met him at the station they expected him to come straight home with them, but he insisted on going to church first.

After the benediction he said to the pastor, "What is wrong? They have been telling us in Guadalcanal that all of the churches at home are filled with praying people, agonizing for the boys on the battle front and praying for a spiritual victory. The church is not full, and I have not heard any agonizing prayers for the dying and suffering boys."

As the pastor turned away, the soldier was heard to say with a deep feeling, "Oh, God! don't let the boys at Guadalcanal find out about it."

Says Bixby:

"Freedom of speech freedom of worship, freedom from want and freedom from fear are great values so far as they go. But they may never go very far beyond the stage of bright idealism if they don't make room for the greatest freedom of all—freedom of individual enterprise."

Most of us probably know what we mean when we talk about 'private enterprise' or 'freedom of enterprise' or whatever we like to call it. And I guess we all mean the same thing, but we seem to fumble the ball when we try to define it exactly.

I like to think of it as freedom for individual initiative. That's about the simplest and most useful of language to describe what has always been the birthright of every citizen on the North American continent. So let's boil it all down to this. The right of free choice.

That takes in your right and mine to choose our opinions and our words, our religion, our homes, our clothes, our books and breakfast foods, friends and amusements. . . . our whole manner of living and our means of making a living. It takes in every man's right to choose his own occupation to bet on his own ability and to get ahead as fast and as far as his own talent and initiative will carry him.

That's one of the big freedoms we've been fighting to maintain. And if we hadn't enjoyed it all these generations, the war would have been long before Canadian and American industry could get into high gear.

If we hope to preserve this right of free choice in the future, I believe we must do a lot of serious thinking about the right kind of incentives—incentives to the worker, to management and to capital to keep production up to the levels that established our North American standards of living."

Holland's Heavy Cross

On a recent Sunday, a moving "errand from the General Synod of Holland was delivered from the pulpit of every Reformed Church in that country. The message spoke courageously of the heavy cross which Holland has to bear, and proceeded: "New" sorrows and anxieties come to thousands of families, now that the evacuation of a large part of South Holland, and the Zealand Islands, and other territory, is beginning. By the demolition in coastal districts farmers and citizens are driven from their homes and herds, while the fertile lands and fields are abandoned to the water." The General Synod then issued the prophetic words: "Let us be faithful to the Word of God. Let us humble ourselves to the discipline of God and at the same time leave over-thing in the hands of the Holy God, who will do justice as it pleases Him." The message goes on to say that the church preaches conversion to body with the Word of God. Show others the way to Jesus, our Saviour and Master, that in the true sense of the Bible we may live in the communion of saints."

Freedom's Memorial

ONE of the most interesting moments in the beautiful story of Washington is the memorial to President Lincoln. Every child knows something of the history of President Lincoln. His simplicity, patriotic devotion to duty and love for the oppressed stand out in light relief.

It is not of him that we wish to speak, but rather of the things which we cannot help having as we look at the memorial statue. It is a memorial of the emancipation of the millions of slaves who had been in bondage. The plain features of President are softened by a love which makes them almost beautiful, as we think of what he was doing. Crouched at his feet is a figure of a slave. The marks of his former bondage are seen in his attitude, while the broken shackles show that servitude is at an end.

The above commemoration of deliverance reminds us of another bondage deeper far than the slavery of the poor African. It is the bondage of sin. Not a few millions only of the human race are held in this bondage, but all men, the world over. "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

If we think of the kindness of the President in setting a slave free, we must more highly do the love and kindness of our blessed Lord Jesus shine out. "Herein is love, that we loved God, but that He loved us" even when we were willing slaves of sin.

The Lord Jesus did not set us free merely by the word of His power. No "Proclamation of Emancipation" could clear us from sin, from guilt and from the punishment due to it, or from the power of the cruel master—sin. President Lincoln became a martyr to his conviction of the right of life was taken as the result of his attitude toward the slave. The Lord Jesus willingly gave His life and bore our judgment to pay the dreadful debt of our guilt. As we think of how He has made us free, we bow at His feet, with the chains of our slavery broken, our sins all forgiven, and thank our grateful hearts and praises.

None but emancipated slaves contributed to this monument; neither can anyone truly pour out his praise to the Lord Jesus unless he has been set free by Him. None of us love the Lord actually, nor can praise Him unless we know Him as our own Saviour. Yet sin must first be forgiven; you must be free from the power of Satan; then you will know something of the poor leper's joy, when he saw that he was healed; he returned and fell down at the feet of the Lord Jesus, giving Him thanks.

In the monument the President's hand is resting upon the proclamation which he has made. This reminds us of the blessed proclamation of our freedom which is set forth in the precious Word of God. A slave might say, "How do I know that I have been set free? And the answer would be: Here it is, in the President's own words, in his proclamation. And how do we know that our sins have been forgiven when we have trusted in the Lord Jesus? He points us to the Word of God itself. It is not good feelings nor good behaviour, nor the feeling of joy in our faith in Him that gives this assurance.

When once set free, the slave could never be brought into bondage again. Whoever did so would have to answer not to the mighty government which had declared him free; so also, whoever

By Abraham Silverstein

After the service, a hundred people or more sought me out to shake hands with me. This astonished, and pleased me. Every one among these strange people showed an interest in me, a stranger. They all asked me to come again. Two sisters asked me where I was going to dinner. I told them I planned to go to some restaurant and I had no other place to go. At once I was urged to go with them. I accepted.

How sweet these two sisters were to me! They were aged but their eyes sparkled when they learned that I was a young Hebrew. Their interest became intense, and when they learned that I would join their church and had already spoken to the pasteur Leonard and Frau Mannheim about it, they could not find words enough to express their gratitude. As to the dinner? I ate nonchalantly; but inwardly, I admitted that it was the first dinner I had ever had, and I did not have too much at the place where I was working, and I was young and strong and could do away with a large dinner if given the chance. And they gave me the chance indeed and gave me many many such chances later on and I availed myself of every one of them. God bless them for their understanding.

When I returned to my lovely room that night, I sat a long time on my bedstead, and thought over every detail of that great and wonderful day, what a beautiful day, these people were leading! How different a crowd to move in! How I longed not to wake up, if it were just a dream. It was too beautiful for words. I felt that life was, after all, worth living. I was filled with tender emotions and in my mind all these young people I had met, passed before me and they were all as kind, so kind, I felt small, inferior, not worthy, and here they took me and lifted me up and made me one of their own.

Between Monday morning, when I was hard at work, till Thursday evening, I walked as on feathers. There was no weight on my mind. I somehow managed to get through my work, although I must admit, I had lost my enthusiasm for the job. I wanted to be free every evening, before six o'clock. Every Sunday all day, and not a half a day; I wanted to have time to go to every meeting these people had, for I longed for their company, for the friendliness which radiated from their midst. Like a blind man, who al-has been set free by the Lord Jesus can never again be brought under condemnation. How sweet it is by faith to look into His face of love, and remember that he has said, "My sheep shall never perish." "I give unto them eternal life."

One more thing suggests itself. Many of the freed slaves have made noble use of their freedom; whilst others, we know, only too many of them, have gone on as weary bondsmen that they ever were in. How sad it is to think that there are those who have heard of the love of Christ and yet refuse to be set free by Him, and go on serving that awful master, Sin, whose wages are death.

"The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

"If the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

ways wishes to sit in the bright sunshine, because a certain glimpse of imagined light penetrates his poor darkened life, so did I want to look in the sunshine of these people's friendliness.

I spoke to the landlady about this. She said I had begun to ask for too much time off, but she would let me go Thursday evenings at 6 o'clock in time to get to church, with the understanding that she was to deduct the equivalent from my wages.

Again I agreed, but reserved to myself the opinion that if she kept on reducing my wages for such time, I wanted to go away. I would be owing her money for working for her.

Now I was without a job. But what of it? Was not my heart full? Did I not have something which compensated me more than all the money in the world? Although I could not quite grasp it; could not quite understand what it was that I had, I felt that I had something which I never before, or better, I had some- thing the value of which was unknown to me, I felt as though I had found a pocketbook full of promising wealth, but that I had not yet examined its contents and did not know just how much that pocketbook contained. That is just the way I felt.

The next thing was to find a new job for without which I could not exist, could not eat, would have no place on earth where to sleep. So I walked along Broadway, and in less than ten minutes saw a sign, "They Wanted!" Together with a dozen other boys I rode up the elevator of the Columbia Sweater Company, and although the offer was only three and a half dollars per week, I agreed to take the job, and remained while the other boys left in disgust at the small offer.

Three and a half dollars was not much. It hardly paid to wear, take a job from eight in the morning to six in the evening, with a half hour for lunch. But to begin at eight instead of at five in the morning, as I had to do until now, and to be free after six in the evening and do whatever I liked after that, was a welcome change and I did not stop to figure it out in terms of dollars and cents.

BIBLE QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY THE VOICE OF PROPHECY INTERNATIONAL BIBLE BROADCAST

Question—I worry about the battle of Armageddon. Will there be safety for anyone at that time? Answer—God's children. Lead never fear. They are always safe in His care. For encouragement, read Psalm 91:4-6, and notice especially verse 4: "He shall cover thee with His feathers, and under His wings shalt thou trust: His truth shall be thy shield and buckler. Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday. A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee. Only with thine eyes shalt thou behold and see the reward of the wicked. Because thou hast made the Lord, which is thy refuge, even the most High, thy habitation; there shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. For He shall give His angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways. It would be good to memorize this Psalm. The forty-sixth Psalm also was written for the time of trouble.

"Please explain Hebrews 12:1. Furthermore we have fathers of our flesh which corrected us, and we gave them reverence; shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?"

A—Your father was like mine, he believed in the laying on of hands once in a while. Butly fathers correct their children for their own good, and the children respect and honor them for it. So also, the heavenly Father must sometimes correct us, but this only proves that we are His sons and the objects of His care, for "God dealt with you as with sons; for the son is he whom the father chasteneth not" (Heb. 12:7). Q—What was the origin of the people in the land of Nod, where Cain was married?

A—The Bible does not say that Cain was married in the land of Nod. Read Genesis 4:16, 17, carefully. If there were any people there before Cain arrived, they were also the descendants of Adam. The word "Nod" means separation, and no doubt results the fact that Cain removed from the presence of the Lord, near the gate of Eden, to this land of Nod, or separation. It may have been inhabited until he and his family arrived.

The Future After Discharge — A MESSAGE TO RELATIVES OF THOSE IN THE ARMED FORCES

When your boys and your girls come home, when they lay aside the uniform, when they go out into the world as normal peace-loving Canadians, what lies ahead? Can they pick up their lives as civilians, where they laid them down, months or long years ago? Are there plans to help them do the things they wanted to do before the war? Will they have security? Can they continue education, or receive needed training? Will they be assisted in home owning, or to establish their own business, and will they be enabled to pick up their family life once again?

These are questions which concern all those Canadians who have loved ones in the services. They are questions which this series of advertisements is designed to answer.

OPPORTUNITY IS THE OBJECTIVE

Canada has been making plans for your boy's and your girl's return to civilian life since early in 1940. These plans are in effect and operating now. The aim is that every person who has served shall have opportunity. Thousands, already back in civilian life, have benefited by training, by maintenance grants, by advice of departmental officials, and by the social security provisions. There is ample help for those men and women who want to help themselves.

ASSISTANCE ON DISCHARGE

When your boys and girls are discharged from the services, they will be given:

1. A clothing allowance of $100.00 (if discharged after August 1, 1944).
2. Their pay to date of discharge.
3. One month's additional pay, if they have 183 days' continuous service, as a rehabilitation grant.
4. A railway warrant home or to the place of enlistment.

Dependents will receive:

1. Their normal dependents' allowance to date of discharge, with assigned pay.
2. An additional months' dependents' allowance, with assigned pay, if there has been 183 days' continuous service.

Your boy or girl will be allowed to retain certain items of uniform. They will be given a complete medical and dental examination and will be eligible for free needed treatment for a year after discharge. Those discharged not physically fit, in need of continuing treatment and unable to work, will have their pay and allowances of rank continued for at least a year if necessary and, if the disability is pensionable, for as long as curative treatment is beneficial. All are interviewed by Veterans' Welfare Officers and told of the re-establishment programme.

WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

On discharge, those enlisted to serve outside Canada, or those who served in the Aleutian Islands, are eligible for a war service gratuity. It provides $7.50 for each thirty days' service in Canada and the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas or in the Aleutian Islands. For those with overseas service or with service in the Aleutian Islands, there is an additional seven days' pay and allowances for each six months of such service. Payments will be made at the end of each month in the months following discharge. Complete details of the war service gratuity will be given in a later advertisement.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

In addition to the war service gratuity, there is a re-establishment credit of $7.50 for each thirty days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each thirty days' service overseas. This is for things such as the purchase or repair of a home, the buying of furniture, a business, or government life insurance, and for certain other purposes which will assist your boy or your girl in becoming re-established. This credit, which is reduced by grants given for training or education, or under the Veterans' Land Act, is primarily for those who do not wish assistance under these three plans.

RETURN TO FORMER JOBS

If your boy or girl held a civilian position before enlisting, and was not engaged to replace somebody already in the forces, and if the position still exists, and your boy or girl is capable of filling it, it is the employer's duty, under the law of Canada, to reinstate him or her in that position with seniority. Application for reinstatement must be made to the former employer within three months of discharge from the forces or from hospital.

Veterans' Welfare Officers are stationed in key centres throughout Canada. They are the friends of ex-service men and women. It is their duty to advise and assist all ex-service personnel with their re-establishment problems. If there is anything about the Rehabilitation programme which you do not understand, consult your nearest Veterans' Welfare Officer.

TRAINING AND EDUCATION

The surest way to permanent employment—the thing your boy or girl will want—is a skill to get and to hold a job. Canada's plans give opportunity to acquire needed skill either at university or in preparation for a business or industrial career. Fees are paid by the state, along with living allowances, while training or continuing education.

WHILE ILL OR UNEMPLOYED

There is protection against illness or unemployment by maintenance allowances which can be drawn against in the first eighteen months after discharge. There is also protection under the Unemployment Insurance Act for those who enter insured employment and remain in it fifteen weeks.

HOME OWNING AND FARMING

There is provision to assist city and other workers to have homes of their own, either on small acreages of land outside the high taxation area, or in town, under the National Housing Act. Full-time farmers can be given financial assistance in full-time farming, while commercial fishermen may secure financial help in getting their own homes, on small acreages of land, and in buying needed fishing equipment.

FREE TREATMENT

In the year following discharge, service men and women are eligible for free treatment, hospitalization and allowances for any condition, even if not the result of service. Pensioners are entitled to this for life for their pensioned disability.

THE POLICY ON PENSIONS

Canada's Pension Act is administered by an independent commission, all former members of the services. Any permanent disability suffered overseas, not a result of misconduct, is pensionable. Where service is in Canada only, the disability must be a result of service.

Weekly Editor Looks at Ottawa

It is now a month since the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, known as "UNRRA," met in Montreal. During the 10-day Conference plans were clarified for extending aid to the war victims of Europe and the Far East. From now on you'll be hearing more about UNRRA for the keynote of that Conference was Action.

UNRRA is international. Members of 44 Allied and Associated Nations met less than a year ago at Atlantic City, N.J., to establish this humanitarian project. It is designed only to operate in the postwar period—but the scope of its emergency functions are great.

To provide food, clothing and shelter for the starving and homeless; to furnish welfare services for children, nursing and expectant mothers; to prevent the spread of epidemics; to restore to their homelands displaced persons (people who through race, religion, or activities on behalf of the Allies have been moved from their own countries); to help the liberated nations re-establish their own voluntary and governmental services—these are but some of the tasks UNRRA has assumed.

Sounds fine, but, how's it financed? Well, each uninvited member nation has pledged itself to contribute one percent of its gross national income to UNRRA. Canada's contribution is $77,000,000. Of this amount 10 percent is paid in cash for administrative expenses and the other 90 percent in supplies and services. Already UNRRA has placed large orders for Canadian woolen garments, soap, fish, farm machinery, wheat and now, as the practical work of relief is at hand, further orders will be received. Footwear, food, medical supplies, timber, motorcycles, trucks, tools the wheels of our Canadian industry will be kept busy!

Where it is possible the liberated countries will pay in part or in whole for the help they received but whether the country can pay or not, whether it has its own resources and skilled people, UNRRA's assistance will do much to hasten rehabilitation.

Financial support and supplies are not the only demand that UNRRA makes on the Canadian people. Men and women of outstanding organizing ability and high qualifications are required for the administrative staff in Washington and for service overseas.

Recruiting of Canadian personnel for UNRRA is done through the offices of the Civil Service Commission, with the one exception of appointments to medical personnel which are made by the head office in Washington working through the medical associations. If you live in the East or West and would like to become associated with the UNRRA organization you can send an application to your district Civil Service Commission office.

At the moment UNRRA is looking for 100 to 125 Canadians, mainly for the overseas service. They want men and women, with university or professional training, ranging in age from 30 to 45 yrs., people with professional experience in welfare work, in the administration of camps, transportation and warehousing officers, rehabilitation specialists in industry and agriculture and a few, in fact a very very few competent secretaries. There is no call for clerical staff.

Righting A Wrong

"The price is too high."
This is the reason given, by many elevator agents, for failure to interest farmers in Registered or Certified seed. If this statement is true, it must be based on one, or both, of two suppositions. They are:
1. That mixed or scrub seed will give as good, or almost as good, a return per acre as will pedigreed seed.
2. That the seed growers are making too large profits.
Both suppositions are wrong. Generally speaking, yield, grade and quality, especially of wheat, are inferior in mixed stocks. Most mixtures, found on prairie farms, contain early and late types, rust resistant and rust susceptible types, poor quality types, etc. Remember that it is not necessary to buy expensive seed every year. With proper care, Registered or Certified seed will continue to produce a reasonably pure commercial crop for several years. Therefore, the cost of pure seed must not all be charged to the year in which the purchase was made.
The question of seed growers' profits can be dismissed with a few words. It takes a mighty good farmer to be a successful seed grower. In most cases, these "good farmers" could make more money by producing commercial grain. Then, why don't they? Simply because they get fond of their pure stocks just as does the livestock breeder. They take a very real pride in their own high standards and do not measure success solely in terms of money income.
The price is not too high.

Sixty Thousand Men Required For Winter Work in Forests, Other Jobs in Packing Plants & Mills

"This Autumn and Winter, Canadian farmers are expected to help in the processing of products they themselves had a hand in production during the summer months."

A Department of Labour spokesman made this statement recently commenting on the N.S.S. campaign to secure more than 100,000 men for work in essential Canadian industries.

Most packing, feed and flour milling are but two of the industries on the look out for men from the farms during their off-season. The largest group of farmers is being asked to work in the woods cutting sawlogs pulpwood and engaging in other forest operations. "Sixty thousand men will be needed for this wartime job alone said the spokesman.

Seasonal Reduction of Motor Car Fees

First reduction in motor license fees for the present license year went into effect on Oct. 1, when a 40 per cent cut was allowed to those taking out licenses to operate cars in the next six months. This is usual at this time.

The next reduction will take effect on Jan. 1, when there will be a drop of 75 per cent in the annual motor fee.

For those turning in their licenses by Jan. 10, next, there will be the usual 20 per cent rebate on the annual motor vehicle fee.

The need, however, for a general reduction in license fees is being stressed by the Alberta Motor Association.

The A.M.A. is taking steps to prepare strong representations to the provincial government in calling for a reduction in license fees. These will be submitted well in advance of the preparation of estimates for the next fiscal year, which will be taken up at the next session of the legislature.

Other provinces have reduced motor license fees and there is every reason to demand that Alberta adopt a similar policy. It is contended by the Motor Association.

Safety Patrols at Alberta Schools

Alberta schools opened on Oct. 2 and more than 100,000 pupils were in attendance, it is estimated.

The Alberta Motor Association again draws attention to the need of drivers using great care when moving their vehicles in the vicinity of schools.

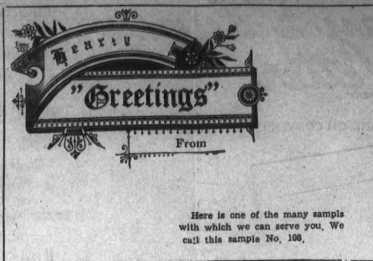

The school safety patrols sponsored by the A.M.A. have done valuable work in recent years and they are again in operation. Not only boys, but also girls are sharing in this work, and it is expected that they will even better their fine record during the last school term.

Wearing a bright sash which carries the letters, A.M.A. the patrols guide groups of youngsters across streets or highways near the school. In most cases, motorists have been found to be most co-operative in aiding the patrols to carry out their duties.

The school patrol movement is growing in favor and many more schools in the province are expected to adopt the idea this term.

Eats up Machinery

During 20 years, 1924-41 Canada used approximately 900,000,000 worth of farm machinery. This represents an investment of over $10 per acre for every acre of land under crops in Canada. In 1941 Canadian farmers purchased over 23 million dollars of farm machinery and in the same year the United States bought more than 752 million dollars worth. In other words the United States buys 33 times as much farm equipment as Canada.

Employment De- pends on Price Control

Full employment in the transition period from wartime to peacetime production is tied up with maintenance of price ceilings. Donald Gordon, Chairman of the War-Time Prices and Trade Board stated at the Canadian Congress of Labour conference this week. For this reason, labour has a special concern in effective price control.

"All experience shows that a stable and reasonable price-level holds out the best prospect for continuous and high employment at decent wages," Mr. Gordon stated.

"In a serious inflation wages trail behind prices and labour loses out," the chairman stated. He showed that sensible elements of mechanization and mechanization is not possible when business has no money to buy machinery.

He estimated the labour potential as about 1,000,000 more men after the war than before, and that to take up the slack caused by decline in war contracts labour and management must think in terms of mass markets to provide plenty of jobs at decent wages.

"To help meet employment needs prices must be controlled now and during the transition period," the chairman pointed out.

"In the reconversion period prices must be prevented from rising so that the urban worker and the farmer can buy better housing and more consumer goods and services, and so that Canada can get into and hold expanded export markets. If we can get volume production, Canada will enjoy a high level of employment. And if employment is well maintained I am sure that organized labour will look after the question of wage rates," the chairman declared.

Mr. Gordon emphasized that maintenance of employment after the war, the buying value of dollars in terms of goods and services are just as important as high wages.

The petroleum industry's wartime development has been pre-determined largely by decisions as to the kinds and amounts of petroleum products required by the Armed Forces, points out R. K. Stratford, head of the technical and research department, Imperial Oil Limited, in an article appearing in C-I-L-Oval. Of particular importance was the decision in 1940 to use 87 octane gasoline instead of 100 octane gasoline as the fuel for aircraft operated under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. The use of 100 octane gasoline would have required the construction of costly refinery units from war-needed materials and, above all, time to bring these new units into production. The decision to use lower octane gasoline meant the immediate use of available equipment. As a result, suitable gasolines are produced in sufficient quantities to train air personnel in the numbers required by Allied war schedules.

Plan U.S. Robots to Bomb Japan

The Herald Tribune says in a Washington dispatch that the war department has contracted for the production of from 1,000 to 2,000 copies of the German V-1 robot bombs with the indication that the United States is preparing to use the "buzz bombs" against the Japanese homeland.

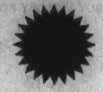

War department sources emphasized that the V-1 robots are being produced solely for "defence study and experimentation." The Herald Tribune says.

The picture above illustrates the job ahead of Canadian woodmen, in many parts of the Dominion farmers, who have helped out in the past, will be rendering winter service in the woods. Six to thousand men will be needed this winter for sawing, pulpwood and other forest work.
